The Purim Superhero

by Elisabeth Kushner
Illus. Mike Byrne

Nate has a Purim dilemma. He loves aliens and really wants to wear an alien costume for Purim, but his friends are all dressing as superheroes and he wants to fit in. What will he do? With the help of his two dads he makes a surprising decision.

The manuscript is the winner of a contest sponsored by Keshet, a national organization that works for the full equality and inclusion of lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgender Jews in Jewish life. Keshet is proud to have played such a key role in the publication of the first LGBT-inclusive Jewish children's book in English!

Elisabeth Kushner was born in New York City and grew up in New Jersey. Her first writing job was at the Chemicals Marketing Reporter, covering the Oils, Fats and Waxes beat. She has also worked as the librarian at the Jewish Day School of Metropolitan Seattle, where she once dressed up for Purim as a Reading Rainbow. Elisabeth lives in Vancouver, Canada, with her spouse, Lise, and their daughter. If she were a superhero, she'd be Orange Ukulele Girl. Her favorite kind of hamentaschen is poppyseed.

Mike Byrne grew up near Liverpool, U.K., and then moved to London to work as an illustrator by day and a crayon wielding crime fighter by night. He now lives with his wife and two cats in the countryside. He spends his day doodling and making children's books, fueled only by tea and cookies.
