

Projects and their meaning

By Everest Mizrahi

The Tree

The tree represents one of the many things that brings the jewish community and the queer community together. The Environment!!!'

For as long as there have been jews they have cared about nature and the environment and you can bet that a good 98% of the LGBTQIA+ community cares deeply about it aswell

The crown of the community

This crown is made up of three sets of eight, eight being L,G,B,T,Q,I,A,+
Representing the identities of the acronym and the colors of the beads representing that many people seeing different parts of the community in black and white but the fact there is so much nuance in being queer and the different identities and so many different ones

The Crown of Earth, Moon, And Stars

This crown represents how yes as a community of queer jews we may be a very small portion of the world and feel very otherd at certain points but we all need to remember that we are all just a bunch of creatures on a giant moving rock in space and if we don't have each other than nobody does and we need to stay together and help each other as a community

The transgender wand

This wand is tipped with the transgender flag. I made the transgender wand to symbolize the magic and joy it is to experience being a transgender person and just because there are hardships the magic is always there

The asexual wand

This wand is tipped with the asexual flag. I made this wand to represent how the asexual community is often overlooked/forgotten in the LGBTQIA+ community with a good majority of people thinking that the A stands for Ally when it really stands for Ace/Aro
